

The word

Global Warming

Yes, it's getting hot. Hotter every day ! The game market is warming up thanks to the launch of the 3 new consoles, and the first real event of the new era starts a month from now! GDC 07 will open the party with its largest event so far! Launched in 1987 with 150 attendees (Yes, 20 Years already...) the Game Developers Conference has survived the turmoil of the 90's, the turn of the century, and even 2006 when E3 disappeared in May and resurrected in July in a new form.

Basically, GDC is the place to be next month! And if you want to take this opportunity to find the best games for the next 2 years and meet with the best services and outsourcing companies, then you must head for Game Connection and Game Connection Services. With more than 80 independent Developers and 50 outsourcing companies, Game Connection launches at GDC its largest event in America. Game Connection @ GDC is the place where games for all platforms are being presented in one on one 30 minute meetings -- time to make a difference and to establish a long lasting relationship. Game Connection Services is THE place to meet one on one with your future partners for outsourcing and services. It's now too late to register as an exhibitor but it is still possible to register as a buyer -- click here.

And about global warming? You can make a difference now! And the best way to save the planet is to be more efficient and energy wise! Instead of flying all over the world to meet your next partner, save time, money and energy, come to the Game Connection, and give our planet a gift!

To make it simpler : Save the planet -- Come to Game Connection.
